

To the Congress, NRA and Wayne Lapierre:

Please tell the truth and say the Background checks are total BS and an infringement on the 2nd Amendment. Complaining about the government's failure to include people in the system is a back-handed endorsement of the system.

Background checks are a joke, and I do not see them as EVER preventing even one killing. Show me one killing that they have stopped.

Focusing on the Air Force screw up is a diversion; this demon in Texas would have gotten guns without a background check, or Molotov cocktails at the corner gas station if guns were not available.

One person is responsible, one person, Kelly, the murderer. Not the Air Force, and certainly not the firearms. And perhaps anyone who associated with him and knew his propensities, and failed to report him.

Certain people are already banned from having firearms (convicted felons, people adjudicated mentally unfit, most drug offenders, people convicted of domestic violence), including this demon in Texas. Preventing them from obtaining firearms is a whole other matter, and next to impossible.

You can buy anything on the black market, guns, heroin, cocaine, LSD, Weed, pills, etc.

People around him must have been aware that he had these guns, and that he had a legal firearms disability, yet no one made any effort to turn him in. Plus lenient judges and prosecutors let gun criminals skate too often, just like that piece of trash who killed our local Girard, Ohio police officer Justin Leo last month.

Enforcement of the firearms under disability laws by the feds, and locking up the severely mentally ill for treatment, are key to solving this problem, not background checks or more "gun control".
